PREFERS CHARGE AGAINST STRIKER TO GRAND JURY

City Attorney Asks That Kalema Be Indicted for Attempt to Commit Murder

QUIET PREVAILS WHEN PICKETING IS STOPPED

Japanese Want Old Jobs Back and Do Not Like Words of Mainland Unions

City Attorney Arthur M. Brown was to present to the territorial grand jury this afternoon the case of Kalema, a Hawaiian alleged to be the striker who rolled an empty galvanized iron gasoline drum in front of an O. R. & L. locomotive early Wednesday morning, derailing it. The locomotive was attached to a string of cars carrying strike-breakers.

"If Kalema is indicted, the charge against him undoubtedly will be that he attempted to commit murder," says City Attorney Brown. The battery of gasoline drum and the iron hoops that circled it were taken to circuit court by the police at 2 o'clock as evidence against the defendant.

With both sides apparently marking time until after the primary election tomorrow the stevedores' strike situation appears today to be a standstill both as concerns strikers and employers.

About the most remarkable feature of the strike today is the almost entire absence of picketing around the waterfront. Where formerly hundreds of union men stood around in front of Piers 16 and 19, there today hardly more than half a dozen.

Few Hawaiians Return.

That there has not yet been any appreciable move on the part of strikers to return to work was stated today by officials of McCabe, Hamilton & Renny. Union leaders said this morning they were not advising their men to return to work at the old wage scale.

Few Police Needed.

Work went along quickly on the waterfront today, and only a small number of patrolmen guarded the docks, as compared with those on duty in the rioting earlier this week.

At midnight last night strike-breakers finished discharging the last of the 7000 tons of cargo the Matson steamer Manoa brought to this port Tuesday morning. She could have steamed for Kahului last night, but the agents decided to hold her here until 6 o'clock this evening so she

MAUI MAN SEEKS FARM LOAN ACT'S EXTENSION HERE

Edwin C. Moore Wins Attention By Petition Urging Necessity of Local Facilities

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6.—Indications that efforts will be made at the forthcoming session of Congress to extend the federal farm loan act to include the Hawaiian Islands are given here in the filing of a petition by Edwin C. Moore, with the federal loan board.

The petition asserts that the need for the law is greater in Hawaii than on the mainland. It declares that farmers of Hawaii are suffering from excessive interest charges on short-time loans and the discrimination of banks to make farm loans.

"The extension of the act to Hawaii would aid greatly in the Americanization of the islands, and through the success of the citizen farmer," he says in the document.

Edwin C. Moore is a well-known Maui farmer, and secretary of the Kula Farmers' Cooperative Association.

TAGORE FLEES SAN FRANCISCO; FEARS ASSASSIN

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 6.—Sir Rabindranath Tagore, noted Indian poet and Nobel prize winner, has canceled his lecture here and left hurriedly for Santa Barbara, fearing assassins. Two members of the Gadar party have been arrested, accused of attacking a Hindu who came from Stockton to invite Tagore to visit that city.

TEN LOSE LIVES IN ST. LOUIS AS HOME IS BURNED

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 6.—President Wilson, returning from his speech at Omaha, passed through here today en route to Long Branch.

FORBES TO ASK ARMY'S HELP IN FILLING SWAMPS

Announces Plans Whereby the Makai Side of Kalakaua May Be Reclaimed

HARBOR BOARD WILL HAVE PART IN WORK

Chairman Sees Mile and Half Boulevard Skirting the Waterfront

Plans for enlisting the army in a big scheme for the reclamation of low waste and marsh lands along Kalakaua avenue, the federal government to fill much of the area makai of the avenue in conjunction with the work on the mauka side by the territory were given to the Star-Bulletin today by Charles R. Forbes, superintendent of public works.

Forbes intends, in addition to this work, to enlist the harbor commission in a plan to dredge much of the waterfront along the Ala Moana road, using the coral and sand thus obtained to make a splendid boulevard that will run from the city incinerator as far Waikeiki as the John Rna road. In a rough estimate made today he said that the road should cost not more than $10,000 a mile. There will be approximately one and one-half miles of it to construct.

Forbes outlined a course of action through Gen. Evans, commander of the Hawaiian department, "that the medical staff of the local department make a report on the condition of property adjacent to Kalakaua avenue from a sanitary standpoint."

"If the report agrees that the place is unsanitary and if the department commander so recommends, I shall then request the federal government to fill the low area of land makai of Kalakaua that corresponds with the land on the mauka side which will be included in Unit No. 1, Waikeiki Reclamation Project, for which we have just completed plans and specifications."

Governor Pinkham has been shown these plans on the reclamation project and is said to be favorable toward them, having recommended some such plan several years ago when he was president of the territorial board of health.

"I intend to ask the legislature for the boulevard along the waterfront, and I shall ask the harbor commission to dredge the harbor in front of it. I also hope to present to the legislature a report on the sanitation fund and ask that it be increased so as to complete several additional units of the big Waikeiki scheme," Forbes concludes.

Persons interested in a driveway along the beach as outlined by Forbes today, point out that it would furnish a great place for yacht and boat races if the harbor was dredged sufficiently in front.

Races could be followed from the crack of the pistol until the contestants had crossed the finish line by spectators driving down the big boulevard.

HOME RULE SAFE IF IRELAND SANE, REDMOND HOLDS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)
WATERFORD, Ireland, Oct. 6.—Addressing his constituents here, John Redmond, Irish leader in Parliament, asserted that despite the recent rebellion, "with all its inevitable aftermath of brutalities, stupidities and inflamed passions," home rule is safe if Ireland remains sane.

He said conscription could never be forced upon Ireland, and that "conscription would be the most fatal thing that could happen."

D. L. WITHINGTON SAYS 8-HOUR LAW BEATING WILSON

Honolulu Attorney, Home From Mainland, Picks Hughes to Win Race

COUNTRY WAKED UP FROM SLEEP OF FULL CONTENT

Republican Candidate is Now Landing Smashing Blows; Maine Forecasts Success

Charles E. Hughes is picked as the next president by Attorney David L. Withington, just back from a mainland trip which extended from California to Maine and back again. And Mr. Withington declares that the Adamson "eight-hour" law is the factor that has assured President Wilson's defeat.

In this law and the manner in which it was forced through a reluctant Congress Hughes has found a great issue, says Mr. Withington, and is hammering it home with tremendous effect. Moreover, he declares that the country is waking up to realize that the Adamson bill assailed the American system of government, and the labor elements realize that they are likely to gain little or nothing from the law.

"The eight-hour law, so-called, is a boomerang for Wilson," says the Honolulu attorney. "It strikes at the root of American institutions because it was legislation put through Congress at the demand of a group of men, a small minority, because it is not an eight-hour law, because the people now understand that it is ineffective in itself and undesirable in the manner by which it was passed."

Attorney Withington was in York, Maine, when Mr. Hughes delivered his first smashing blow at the Adamson law. He sat on the platform and watched the former supreme court justice hammer home his points to a convinced Maine audience.

He comments that Hughes is now making a notably good campaign. "His first attack was not successful, that is a fact," he says. "As a whole, it did not make the kind of an impression that Hughes had to

GERMANY CLAIMS NEW SEA-PLANE VICTORY

(German Official.)

BERLIN, Germany, Oct. 6.—A sea-plane squadron on October 3 successfully dropped heavy, light and burning bombs on military objects at Saccaniano and St. Arscano. All machines, in spite of shelling, returned to their base.

(German Official.)

GERMAN HEADQUARTERS' REPORT, Oct. 5.—On the battlefield north of the Somme strong artillery preparations were made today prior to infantry attacks. In most places the hostile infantry ready for the charge was checked by our fire. Thus the British attacks between Mouquet farm and Courcellette were completely broken down. Hostile columns launched between Courcellette and Eaucourt L'Abbaye penetrated our positions only near Lesars, where the British infantry succumbed with heavy losses in fighting our troops.

A French attack carried across the line of Rancourt and Bouchavesnes, failed before our lines. Yesterday morning in violent combats we lost isolated trenches.

On the crown prince's front: Lively artillery combats took place on both sides of the Meuse.

In the eastern theater: On Prince Leopold's front on the Stochod the Russians made several unsuccessful advances. West of Luck the Russians again and again repeated their furious charges without obtaining any advantage. The charging waves were each time annihilated by artillery, infantry and machine-gun fire.

Only north of Zolobno feeble detachments penetrated our positions, but were immediately ejected.

The flyers having on the preceding days caused damage to the enemy by successful attacks against the camps, concentrated troops and railroads, yesterday we made new attacks and set on fire by numerous bombs the railroad station at Rozysce and rear-guard establishments nearby.

In the Transylvanian war arena several Rumanian attacks west of Paravai were repulsed. The second Rumanian army, which on October 2 took the offensive near Bekotien, has now retreated in the Ait Valley behind Sincul and actually farther northward. After efforts at various points which failed the enemy has withdrawn to the frontier heights.

Near Orsova, on the Danube, the Rumanian advance guard gained some terrain.

In the Balkan war theater: Von Mackensen's army has repulsed attacks.

On the Macedonian front: The enemy maintains some heights, but the situation is generally unchanged and the enemy has not gained on the Struma.

Star-Bulletin Returns

BASEBALL

Beginning shortly before 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, detailed news of the world's baseball series, inning by inning, will be received by the Star-Bulletin and given to the public in front of the Star-Bulletin office, Merchant Street.

From Boston, where the first game will be played, Associated Press wires will flash the story of the game, play by play, to San Francisco, where the Associated Press will speed it to Honolulu by the Federal Wireless system. The lineup of the teams, batteries and other features will be given just before the news of the game itself.

The Star-Bulletin extends a general invitation to the public to get the news from the office of this paper tomorrow morning and every morning while the world's series continues. The first two games are played in Boston, Saturday and Monday, then the teams go to Brooklyn for the next two, and if neither has won the requisite four out of seven by that time the remaining games then are played alternately in each city.

ELECTION

Returns from the territorial primary election tomorrow will be shown to-morrow night by the Star-Bulletin from Room 9, Waity building, the figures being flashed on an illuminated screen just across the street on the store front of W. W. Dimond & Co.

The polls close at 5 and it is expected that the count will have progressed far enough by 6:45 or 7 o'clock so that from then on they can be given in rapid-fire style. As only territorial candidates are to be voted for, the count should be fairly complete by 10 or 11 o'clock.

The Star-Bulletin has arranged for quick returns not only on Oahu, but on the other islands.

Everybody in Hawaii is interested in politics, just like everybody is interested in baseball, or at least it seems so, from the crowds which invariably watch returns of either. The Star-Bulletin couples its invitation to the public to get the baseball returns in the morning with an invitation to get the election news in the evening.

The Star-Bulletin's special telephone number for election returns tomorrow night is 4905. This paper will appreciate it if its friends of various precincts, particularly in the country districts, will call this number and give news of election returns in these precincts as the count progresses. Such assistance has been of much value in the past and has enabled the public to get the news rapidly and authoritatively.

Stronghold of Nevolyn Taken and Balkan Campaign is Pushed Hard

MEANWHILE MACKENSEN THREATENS RUMANIANS

Russian Reinforcements Unable to Hold German Offensive in Dobrudja

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 6.—The New York Evening Post today published as definite truth the story that James Gerard, U. S. ambassador to Germany, is en route from Germany back to Washington to lay before the president a request for the use of his office in suing for peace with the Allies.

"Germany has definitely decided to apply to Wilson to use his good offices," says the Post.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6.—The story that Gerard is on his way here on a mission of peace for Germany is given no credence in the capital, except that Gerard is coming home for a vacation.

BERLIN, Germany, Oct. 6.—Gen. von Falkenhayn, fighting against the Rumanians on the Transylvania front, has driven the enemy back over the Alt river.

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 6.—Bulgaria is weakening under the hammering of the Allies in Macedonia, according to despatches from the Balkan arena today by way of Saloniki.

The British who recently crossed the river Struma to the eastern bank have occupied the town of Nevolyn, which had been fortified against attack. Reports indicate that as the Bulgarian resistance weakens they are retreating further and further from their original lines.

VON MACKENSEN CUTS FURTHER INTO RUMANIA

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 6.—Reports from Sofia today indicate that the attempts of the Rumanians in the Dobrudja district, reinforced by the Russians, to check the victorious progress of Gen. von Mackensen's army have failed.

On the west front today the British made further progress northwest of Eaucourt L'Abbaye. Three raiding parties entered the enemy trenches in the Loos and Arras regions.

RUSSIANS GET CLOSER IN ADVANCE ON LEMBERG

PETROGRAD, Russia, Oct. 6.—The Russians have made further headway in their Lemberg campaign, capturing positions south of Brzezany.

The Russian offensive along the line north of this section has been checked by counter-attacks.

GIVES HIS AERO RIGHTS TO BRITISH GOVERNMENT?

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 6.—A London newspaper says today that Orville Wright, the American aeroplane inventor and manufacturer, has presented his patent rights, worth a huge sum of money, to England.

SCHOONER GOES ASHORE IN CALM NEAR KAAPALANI

U. S. S. St. Louis Stands By; Muriel Towed to Maui Port By Columbine Today

Before daylight this morning the four-masted schooner Muriel, bound from Port Ludlow for Kaanapali with lumber for the Pioneer Mill Company, floated without assistance from the coral reef at Napali bay, four and a half miles north of Kaanapali, Maui. The U. S. S. first-class cruiser St. Louis stood by but her assistance was not needed.

The Muriel drifted ashore in a calm at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to a radio early today by the Star-Bulletin from its Waialuku correspondent, confirming advice received here last evening by the local office of Hind, Rolph & Company, vessel agent.

A wireless received this morning by Lighthouse Inspector A. E. Arledge of the 19th lighthouse district from Capt. Frank T. Warriner, master of the lighthouse tender Columbine, which left here at 9:30 last night to go to the schooner's assistance, reported that when the Columbine arrived at Napali bay at 5:15 this morning the Muriel was afloat and the U. S. S. St. Louis was standing by.

The Muriel is damaged and leaking, according to the message. At the request of her master, Capt. J. S. Helmsing, the Columbine put a line aboard the schooner and towed her to her destination. Kaanapali, mooring her at the landing.

While coming down Pailolo channel between Maui and Molokai from the Puget Sound port, 26 days out, trying to make Kaanapali landing, yesterday afternoon, the Muriel ran into trouble because of the kona wind which was blowing at the time instead of the usual northeast trades.

Kona Made Trouble.

The captain probably got into a dead eddy, according to local shipping

SECOND HUMAN LEG IS FOUND AT KOKO HEAD

Police Investigation Ordered; Rose is Convinced Strange Tragedy Has Occurred

Is it crime or some strange series of accidents which is strewn human limbs in the vicinity of Koko Head? Another dismembered limb of a human body has been found at Koko Head.

The one found Tuesday was that of a white man.

Deputy Sheriff Asch and Police Surgeon Ayer were called to the Koko Head beach this morning by the discovery of a leg upon the sand. Sheriff Rose is aroused by the second discovery and has ordered a complete investigation.

Asch and Ayer returned at noon to tell of the discovery, but report no clue. Both are sure the limb found Tuesday was that of a Hawaiian woman, not long dead, and the limb inspected and buried this morning is surely that of a white man, they say, from the large foot and muscular and they say the man was not accustomed to walking about barefoot.

The legs were found not more than 100 feet apart. Both were discovered by fishermen, who are thoroughly frightened by their gruesome discoveries.

Sheriff Rose is convinced that a

Former Land Commissioner to Leave Tomorrow for Tour of Big Island

Joshua D. Tucker, former commissioner of public lands, will leave tomorrow on the Mauna Kea for Hilo to begin the inspection of old heliads on the island of Hawaii. Tucker will collect data to be presented in the form of a report to Superintendent Charles R. Forbes of the department of public works.

Tucker said today that he will be joined in Hilo by Senator Stephen Desha who has a keen interest in the preservation of the ancient heliads sites and who is well acquainted with nearly every foot of soil on the Big Island. Tucker, too, has traveled much on Hawaii and knows the country well.

Forbes said today that he will present Tucker's report or portions of it in the form of a recommendation to the territorial legislature at the next session, advocating an appropriation to preserve the old relics of ancient Hawaiian history. The work of collecting data is expected to last for about two weeks.

William Carl Pohlmann, treasurer of the Hurd-Pohlmann Company and a native of Germany, has filed in the federal court a petition for American citizenship.
